

McCORD

Advanced Micelle Regenerative Technologies

How Dying Cells Can Support Their Neighbors

During normal programmed cell death, aging or damaged cells break into membrane-bound apoptotic bodies. Neighboring cells and tissue-clearing cells safely remove this material, allowing reusable cellular components to be recycled while helping preserve tissue balance and support healthy epidermal renewal.